Quick Facts

Florida still has an affordable housing crisis:

- 921,928 very low-income Florida households—which include hardworking families, seniors, and people with disabilities—pay more than 50% of their income for housing.
- Florida has the third highest homeless population of any state in the nation, with 31,030 people living in homeless shelters and on the streets. This includes 2,543 veterans and 9,587 people in families with at least one child.
- Low-wage jobs are prevalent in Florida’s economy. In many occupations, workers do not earn enough to rent a modest apartment or buy their first home.

Why Does Home Matter?

The health, safety, and welfare of Floridians and the strength of Florida's overall economy depends on a sufficient supply of housing affordable to Florida's working families, elders, and people with disabilities living on fixed incomes.

Affordable housing reduces taxpayer expenses

- Affordable, community-based housing for seniors and people with disabilities is significantly less than the cost of institutional care.
- Chronically homeless persons often cycle through jails, hospitals, and other crisis services. Permanent supportive housing for this high-need population can considerably reduce taxpayer costs.
- Affordable housing can improve the health and educational outcomes of low-income families and children, reducing the public costs associated with illness and poor school performance.

Affordable housing boosts the economy

- Money spent on affordable housing construction and rehabilitation has a ripple effect on local economies. Contractors and suppliers spend money on materials and labor, and workers spend their earnings locally.
- If the Sadowski Housing Trust Fund money is fully appropriated for housing, it will create more than 30,000 jobs and over $4 billion in positive economic impact in just one year, while creating homes that will last far into the future.

HOME Matters.

The Florida Housing Coalition has produced this report in support of Home Matters® (www.HomeMattersAmerica.com), a national movement to make Home a reality for everyone by elevating the importance of Home's impact on people's health, education, personal success, public safety, and the economy. Participating in Home Matters is a coast-to-coast coalition composed of members of the general public, leaders of housing and community development organizations, as well as other organizations concerned about increasing the positive impact of home in their communities.

HOW ARE FLORIDA'S SADOWSKI HOUSING PROGRAMS FUNDED?

The doc stamp tax on all real estate transactions was increased in 1992. The additional money generated is dedicated to the state and local housing trust funds. 70% is directed to local governments (all 67 counties) and Florida's entitlement cities to fund the SHIP program. 30% is used by the Florida Housing Finance Corporation for programs such as SAIL.

SHIP

The State Housing Initiatives Partnership Program (SHIP) is a nationally-acclaimed model for effectively and efficiently meeting housing needs at the community level. SHIP provides sustainable homeownership for Florida's workforce, helps prevent homelessness, and provides emergency repairs and disaster recovery for Florida's most vulnerable residents, including the frail elderly, persons with disabilities and veterans.

SAIL

The State Apartment Incentive Loan Program (SAIL) produces apartments for Florida's workforce, rehabilitates existing apartments in dire need of repair, as well as apartments that house Florida's most vulnerable populations, including the frail elderly and persons with disabilities who might otherwise need to live in an institutional setting.

For that same 2-bedroom apartment, a minimum wage Floridian earning $8.25/hour must work 104 hours/week year round or the household must include 2.6 minimum wage earners working year round.

SHIP and SAIL have proven track records for performance, transparency, and accountability. Floridians need affordable housing. SECTION FIVE:

The Sadowski Housing Trust Funds: A Proven Track Record of Producing and Preserving Affordable Housing

As this report has demonstrated, hundreds of thousands of low-income Floridians struggle with high housing costs. Many factors affect the supply of affordable housing, including low wages for common occupations, high market prices for homes and apartments in decent condition, and limited federal funding for housing programs⁵⁰. Moreover, the situation is worsening for low-income renters, as the gap grows between median rents and what renters can afford to pay. Meanwhile, many low- and moderate-income potential homebuyers, including essential service workers, are forced out of the homebuyer market by high sale prices relative to wages, competition from investors and vacation home buyers, and limited inventory.

It is very challenging for Florida’s policymakers and community advocates to directly influence these factors in the near term, but we do have control over a simple and powerful tool at the state level: The Sadowski State and Local Housing Trust Funds. These dedicated funds allow thousands of low- and moderate-income families to rent, buy, and renovate affordable homes each year, while leveraging substantial public and private funds and boosting Florida’s economy.

Sadowski History and Major Programs

Twenty-five years ago, a diverse coalition of Florida’s affordable housing advocates, business and industry groups, and faith-based organizations recognized the need for a dedicated state revenue source for affordable housing. In 1992, the state legislature passed the William E. Sadowski Affordable Housing Act, which raised the state documentary stamp tax on deeds by ten cents per $100 of the property’s valueⁱ. The Sadowski Act directed the new funds to two trust funds, one for local governments and one for the state.

The Local Housing Trust Fund supports the State Housing Initiatives Partnership (SHIP) program, which primarily funds the production and preservation of affordable ownership housing for low- and moderate-income households. The Florida Housing Finance Corporation (Florida Housing) uses a population-based formula to distribute SHIP funds to all 67 counties and to cities that receive Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds. SHIP is most commonly used to support home construction, rehabilitai In 1995, the State Legislature shifted another ten cents of documentary stamp tax revenue from general revenue to the Sadowski trust funds.

Each SHIP Dollar is Required to Meet the Following Criteria:

tion to make homes safe and/or handicapped accessible, and assistance with down payments and closing costs. It requires a high degree of accountability, but also gives local government flexibility to meet local needs, as long as the statutory requirements are met. These requirements, found in Florida Statute 420, include:

- At least 65% must be spent on homeownership-related activities
- At least 75% must be spent on construction (including new construction and rehabilitation)
- At least 30% must be used to assist very low-income households
- At least 60% must be used to assist low-income households
- No more than 10% may be used on administration

Rental housing activities are limited to 25% of a community's annual SHIP allocation. Several SHIP communities use a portion of their rental funds to support eviction prevention programs and Rapid Re-Housing for homeless families, helping them pay security and utility deposits. Additionally, in the 2016-2017 legislative session, the SHIP statute was amended to allow SHIP communities to provide up to 12 months of rental assistance to very low-income households that are homeless or have a member with special needs.

The State Housing Trust Fund supports several activities, including administration of the Sadowski funds by Florida Housing. The main Sadowski-funded state program is the State Apartment Incentive Loan (SAIL) program. SAIL provides funding on a competitive basis for the construction and rehabilitation of affordable multifamily rental housing.

SAIL usually serves as "gap financing" for developments with other funding sources, such as the Low Income Housing Tax Credit^j.

Impact of Sadowski Trust Funds

In Fiscal Year 2019-20, a projected $352 million in documentary stamp tax revenues will be available for appropriation to the Sadowski trust funds. This funding level is over 10 times the amount of annual funding ($25 million) that Florida is projected to receive in future years from the National Housing Trust Fund (NHTF)⁵¹, and well over the $10.44 million received from the NHTF in 2018⁵². If State Legislature appropriates the full amount to the Sadowski trust funds, the economic impact will be considerable, as shown in Table 4. Every Sadowski dollar will leverage more than $4 from other public and private sources. When the direct, indirect, and induced impacts of Sadowski-funded developments are taken into account, the total economic impact will be over $4 billion. Additionally, these developments will create more than 30,000 jobs and generate $1.09 billion in labor income.

In addition, Sadowski funds give low- and moderate-income families a hand up that can be extended to their children and grandchildren. For example, the SHIP allocations from fiscal years 2006-07 to 2013-14 had a profound impact on Florida communities, even though the program's funding was swept into general revenue by the State Legislature for much of that period. A total of 38,799 households were assisted, of which:

- 621 were homeless households,
- 1,449 households had a member with developmental disabilities, and

^j The Low Income Housing Tax Credit, or LIHTC, is an item of the Internal Revenue Code. The U.S. Treasury Department issues tax credits to states, which in turn award them to affordable housing developers. The developers sell them to equity investors to raise money for development of affordable rental housing.

Conclusion

Affordable Housing is Essential for Floridians:

Having a healthy, affordable place to call home is the foundation of our lives and the basis of strong local economies. Affordable housing allows low- and moderate-income working families to live near their places of employment, and enables our elderly and disabled family members on fixed incomes to be integrated in their communities.

- Affordable housing construction and rehabilitation stimulates local economies by creating jobs and generating business for contractors and suppliers.
- Affordable housing improves a family's physical and mental health, and helps children excel in school.
- For the elderly and people with disabilities, affordable community-based housing is one-third of the cost of institutional care.
- For people who are chronically homeless, affordable housing breaks the costly cycle through hospitals, jails, and other taxpayer-funded crisis systems.

We Don't Have Enough Affordable Housing in Florida:

- Close to 1.97 million low-income Florida households are paying more than 30% of their incomes for housing, the maximum amount considered affordable by experts.
- Of these nearly 1.97 million low-income "cost burdened" households, over 619,000 households are headed by seniors, and approximately 600,000 households have a member with disabilities.
- Over 921,000 very low-income Floridians are severely cost burdened, meaning that they pay more than 50% of their incomes for housing.
- Florida's "Point-in-Time" homeless population has experienced a 36% net decrease since 2007. However, the number of K-12 students who experience homelessness or housing instability showed a 83% net increase from the 2008-09 to 2016-17 academic years. Continued progress on reducing homelessness depends on a steady supply of affordable rental housing.
- "Drive till you qualify" is not a solution to high housing costs, since transportation costs largely consume the housing cost savings. For the average low-income household in one of Florida's major metro areas, combined housing and transportation costs can easily consume over 70% of income.

There is a Large and Growing Gap Between Income and Housing Costs:

- For a young family of four to meet its basic needs, the parents must earn a combined wage of $27.58 per hour, or about $13.79 per parent. Unfortunately, 35% of Florida's jobs are in occupations with median wages below $13.79 per hour.
- Rents are out of reach for low-income workers in many Florida communities. For example, an restaurant cook cannot afford a moderately priced one-bedroom apartment in the Orlando, West Palm Beach or Tallahassee areas.
- Florida has only 22 affordable and available rental units for every 100 extremely low-income renters (those with incomes at or below 30% of the area median).
- Over 35,000 units are at risk of being permanently lost from the privately-owned affordable housing stock by 2030.
- The median renter income in Florida is too low to afford median rents, and the gap between rents and renter incomes is wider now than it was at the height of the housing boom.
- Median-priced homes in Florida are out of reach for many workers with medium- and high-skilled jobs. For example, firefighters in the Gainesville metro area cannot afford to buy a median-priced home.
- Florida has a shortage of moderately priced homes available for low-income homebuyers, partly due to competition from investors and second-home buyers. In 2017, there were about five low-income potential homebuyers for every home sold to an owner-occupant at or below the median sale price.

The Good News

Although the affordable housing need in Florida is daunting, our state has a nationally acclaimed program based on a dedicated revenue source with a proven track record for performance, transparency, and accountability: The State and Local Housing Trust Funds created by the William E. Sadowski Affordable Housing Act. The largest

State Housing Trust Fund program is the State Apartment Incentive Loan (SAIL) program, while the Local Housing Trust Fund supports State Housing Initiatives Partnership (SHIP) programs in every county and all of Florida's larger cities.

The Sadowski programs are a powerful engine of economic development in Florida. If the State Legislature appropriates all State and Local Housing Trust Fund monies for housing in 2019, the resulting affordable housing development will generate:

- Over $4 billion in economic output,
- More than 30,000 jobs, and
- Over $1 billion in labor income.

In addition to boosting the state's economy, SHIP and SAIL have helped hundreds of thousands of low- and moderate-income families move into affordable homes or renovate their current homes since 1992. SHIP and SAIL are Florida's most important home-grown tools for providing housing for our most vulnerable populations, including:

- Elderly households,
- People with developmental disabilities, and
- Homeless individuals and families.

Affordable housing saves taxpayer dollars and improves the quality of life for these vulnerable populations.

We cannot end Florida's affordable housing shortage overnight, and it is difficult for us to control factors such as the wages for common occupations and funding cuts to federal housing programs. However, the Sadowski Housing Trust Funds are a homegrown, highly successful affordable housing program, and they are fully within our control. With strong public-private partnerships leveraged by consistent state funding, we can help thousands of families move into decent, safe, affordable housing every year, boosting our state and local economies in the process. Fully appropriating Sadowski Housing Trust Fund monies for housing is one of the best policy decisions we can make at this critical moment, when Florida's home prices and overall economy reach full recovery from the Great Recession.

When the housing trust fund is swept
