Registration: <https://attendee.gotowebinar.com/register/2062618267637654286>

This training was formerly titled 'Curing Title Issues'. Title issues caused by heirs' property (often referred to simply as heirs' property) is a type of "tenancy in common" that occurs when property is passed down through generations without going through probate. Because heirs' property often lacks clear ownership, property held by heirs as tenants in common is difficult to sell, repair, or improve, and this type of ownership is a major source of land loss for low-income households, either because one or more owners force a sale or because untended property is eventually escheated to the state. Identifying, preventing, and remediating heirs' property is key to improving low-income neighborhoods in Florida. This training will feature legal aid attorneys and housing professionals and explore how communities can help ameliorate heirs' property issues.
